PROVO — Local members of the Relief Society of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will join with similar congregations around the world March 17 to commemorate the organization's 50th anniversary.

The Relief Society, the longest continuing women's organization of its kind in the world now has 3.1 million members internationally. It is dedicated to women's education, development and support.

As part of the worldwide celebration the Orem Lakeview Stake Relief Society chapter will participate in the three main focuses of the sesquicentennial celebration which will be shared by the worldwide membership. The principal activities planned include local service projects, a live international satellite broadcast linking women's congregations in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, Australia, England, France, Germany, Japan, Korea, Mexico, New Zealand, the Philippines, South Africa and Taiwan; and a renewed effort to work within the community to improve literacy levels and proficiency.

Among the local service efforts planned, the Orem Lakeview Stake women will be sending diapers, bedding and similar items to a children's hospital in Moscow, Russia, serving in local homeless shelters, providing personal items for women and children's local crisis centers, and assisting in community voter registration according to Sally Taylor, Stake Relief Society president.

A live satellite broadcast, on March 14, will be one of the largest women's teleconferences ever. It will feature Church and Relief Society leaders, who will speak to congregations assembled around the world.
